Printing Types We Offer

Sublimation Printing

Sublimation printing is a printing process for transferring motifs to a variety of materials, for example T-Shirts or ceramic mugs, using a carrier material. For this purpose, special sublimation printers and sublimation inks are used.

Screen Printing

Screen printing is a printing technique where a mesh is used to transfer ink onto a substrate, except in areas made impermeable to the ink by a blocking stencil.

Heat transfer

Heat transfer, also known as thermal printing, thermal-transfer printing and thermal-wax transfer, is a method of printing that allows you to print a design onto a piece of clothing or an object. Heat transfer printing uses the process of heat to transfer an image created in wax to an object or garment.

Direct to Garment

Direct-to-garment printing is a process of printing on textiles using specialized aqueous ink jet technology. DTG printers typically have a platen designed to hold the garment in a fixed position, and the printer inks are jetted or sprayed onto the textile by the print head.

Vinyl Printing

Vinyl printing uses vinyl to create graphics on a T-Shirt. The design is contour cut on a machine, weeded, and then heat pressed on a garment. This process can be tedious but the results are worth it. The design is long lasting and fade resistant. However you must properly care for the garment to yield optimal results.

Our Specialty

Printing

Printing what is known as silkscreen and also another type, which is color sorting or what is known as sublimation.

Sewing

We do not bear the task of sewing only, as we provide advice to clients separately and according to the nature of his business.

Embroidery

We embroider all company logos and take good care of all kinds of threads, in order to maintain their luster and quality.
